CENTENARIAN DIES PRAYING

Clarissa Truitt, 100 Years Old, Former Rushville Resident, Succumbs With Plea on Her Lips.

WAS AUNT OF MRS. SAM YOUNG

Came Here From New Jersey, Crossing Mountains in Covered Wagon —Left 20 Years Ago.

Mrs. Clarissa Truitt, centenarian, aunt of Mrs. Sam Young of North Perkins street, and for eighty-five years a member of the Methodist Episcopal church of America, is dead at the home of her daughter, Mrs.
Sarah Kiplinger, in Kokomo. She expired yesterday with a prayer on her lips and with her every faculty in good condition. Mrs. Truitt resided in this city until twenty years ago, when she moved to Kokomo to take up her residence with her daughter.

Mrs. Truitt was born in New Jersey, May 7, 1810, and was one hundred years, seven months and five days old. She exhibited remarkable vitality until the very end, being able to hear, see and understand everything until the last moment of her life. While yet a child she came to Indiana with her parents, crossing the Allegheny mountains in a covered wagon. The family settled in this county and Mrs. Truitt spent all of her life here until twenty years ago.

Last May seventh, her hundredth birthday anniversary, was made the occasion of a great celebration by members of the family, relatives here attending. A big family dinner was served and Mrs. Truitt enjoyed the affair immensely, joining in the conversation and being able to understand everything that took place.
Mrs. Sam Young, who is her nearest relative, has gone to Kokomo to attend the funeral.

Mrs. Truitt was an earnest member of the church for over eighty years. She always claimed that her conversion was brought about by a

Chauncey Duncan's loss from rob-than was at first thought. Only some eatables and some articles from Mr.

Duncan's pockets were missing, but Saturday evening when an inventory was taken, it was found that considerable silverware was taken. Altogether the loss was probably thirty-five dollars, consisting of silver tableware. Many articles were prized highly because they were wedding presents from friends.

HENRY COUNTY WILL BUY HOME

Commissioners Decide to Purchase Spiceland Institution After Local Board Signifies Unwillingness.

THEY WILL PAY $8300 FOR IT

Orphans From This County Will Continue to be Cared For at Same Cost.

As a result of the joint meeting of the commissioners of this county and those of Henry county at Spice-land yesterday to decide on the future of the Spiceland Orphans' Home, Henry county will buy the home of the heirs of Mrs. Ella Bundy, former matron, who died last Wednesday, at $8,300, and Rush county will continue her orphans there at thirty-five cents a day as has been the custom in the past.

The Rush county commissioners made the trip to Spiceland in an automobile, returning last evening after the meeting. The session was held in the morning after which the two boards made a tour of inspection over the home and grounds. After dinner it was decided that the Henry county commissioners would buy the institution and that the Rush county orphans would be sent there as has been done in the past. Besides the two boards at the meeting, Fred C.
Gause, county attorney of Henry county, and the two representatives of the Bundy estate, Earl Churchill of Buffalo, N. Y., and Hudson Lander of New Castle, were present.

When it was ascertained that the local board was unwilling to invest the county's money in the Spiceland home, the Henry county commissioners promptly decided to make the purchase, after the agreement was made that Rush county orphans should be sent there and the same sum paid as has been in the past.
The deal will be consummated as soon as the Henry county council can be assembled and the money appropriated to make the purchase. In the meantime the home will be maintained by the Bundy estate and the orphan children will be cared for by them.

The late Mrs. Bundy paid $8,123 for the grounds and buildings and also spent $700 for the furnishings.
The estate is willing to take $8,300 for everything.

At the joint meeting Monday there were four applications received for the position of matron, the position which the late Mrs. Bundy so acceptably filled for a number of years.

PEOPLE LOSE IN OPERATING PLANT

Field Examiners Charge Knightstown
Citizens Short $5,000 on Account Loose Management.

DUE TO POOR BOOKKEEPING

Assert That Certain Prominent Citizens Have Enjoyed Free Use of Water and Light.

That the citizens of Knightstown have suffered losses of more than $5,000 annually in revenue from the operation of the water and light plant, is the conclusion of James D.
Smith and John W. Barlow, field examiners for the State Board of Accounts, who have just completed their examination of the books of the civil town. The board of town trustees during the period covered by the examination and two water and light superintendents, Sigel Wilson and William P. Frederiek, are held responsible. Field examiners made a report on the records of the school board of Knightstown only yesterday finding that they were perfect.

The examiners found that both superintendents have been careless in the attending to collections and keeping accurate records of the business of the water and light plant. Wilson, the examiners say, was an excellent mechanician, but a poor bookkeeper.
Frederiek, they say, was even more lax in the administration of the affairs of the office. The former was superintendent from 1906 to March 1909, and the latter from March, 1909, to September, 1910.

Certain prominent citizens of the town are charged with having enjoyed the use of water and light for which they did not pay the corporation. A list of these citizens, as furnished the examiners by Alverness M.
Chance, who succeeded Mr. Freder-iek, is made a part of the report of the field examiners.

Collections were made on the streets or wherever the superintendent happened to meet delinquents, according to the finding of the examiners. Receipts were given on the back of old letters or on any scrap of paper which might be available.

Consequently the examiners say, there was no system to the bookkeeping and the money was turned into the treasury without any proper accounting. The citizens are advised to correct the present system and make proper provision for a bookkeeper and collector if they desire a water and light plant that will be self-sustaining.

BUSY TIME AT POST-OFFICE

Postal Clerks Urge Public to Send Christmas Mail Early.

Due to the fact that Christmas comes on Sunday, the postoffice will remain open until 12 o'clock instead of 10 as is the usual custom. The office will be open all day Monday and the employees will not get the usual holiday. The postal clerks are urging the public to send their Christmas mail early as there is always a great rush at the last moment. Already the mail is becoming heavier and this year promises to break all records at the local office.

STILL SEEING SIGHTS.

Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Kirkpatrick, a Rushville bridal couple, after spending several days in Washington, left Monday afternoon for Atlantic City, says a Washington dispatch.

RARE PHENOMENA.

your calendar or almanac you will see that the month of December has two new moons, one on the first of December and the other on the 31st. This is something that occurs once in a long flight of time and those who live until New Year's will be able to boast of seeing something that does not happen in every man's life time.

of-the city guests, prominent in lodge circles will be present. A. H. Schrie-te will act as toastmaster, and Charles R. Duffin of Terre Haute, deputy State statistician and State deputy of the Knights of Columbus will speak on "Just a Word." The other subjects are "Citizen," John A.
Demmer; "Let's Smile," Rev. Walter Cronin; "Farm Lands," John Geraghty; "Our Pastor," Al Simmes.
Short talks will also be made by several other members.

FORMER RESIDENT DIES IN COLUMBUS

Col. John A. Keith, 78 Years Old,
Who Spent His Early Life Here, Succumbs.

NOTED LAWYER BEFORE WAR

Colonel John A. Keith is dead at the home of his sister, Mrs. T. B.
Prather, in Columbus, at the age of seventy-eight. He was a native of Germantown, Ky., but moved with his parents to Rushville when young. He went to Columbus in 1851 and opened a law office and in the years preceding the civil war he was a leading lawyer in Columbus. He married Miss Melissa Cristler of Connersville, in 1859, after having been engaged to her for thirteen years, and thirteen months after their marriage she died.

Colonel Keith enlisted in the Twenty-first Indiana heavy artillery and received a commission as colonel.
He served in this capacity until 1863 when he was wounded in the shoulder and sent home. He never recovered from the effects of the wound. His father, Isham Keith, was killed in the rebellion and the Columbus G. A. R. post is named for him.

ANNUAL ELECTION.

WIDOW'S HOME RAZED TO GROUND

Residence Property of Mrs. Nancy Emmons of Manilla is Complely Destroyed by Fire.

AT A LOSS OF 500 DOLLARS

Blaze, Originating From Defective Flue, Was Discovered by Members of the Family.

Fire originating from a defective flue, completely destroyed the residence property of Mrs. Nancy Em-mons in Manilla yesterday at a loss of five hundred dollars to her. The property was insured for nine hundred dollars. Much of the household goods was saved.

The blaze was first discovered by a member of the family, who quickly notified the neighbors. Efforts were made to extinguish the blaze, but the work of the bucket brigade proved fruitless. Unfortunately the members of the volunteer department devoted all their time in an effort to extinguish the blaze and no attention was directed toward saving the household goods.

The structure had recently undergone extensive repairs. It was purchased by Mrs. Emmons, who is an aged lady, several years ago. Her daughter, Mrs. Mary Lane, lives with her.

Shortly before five o'clock yesterday morning, Mrs. Lane arose and started a fire in the kitchen stove.
She was busily engaged with her household duties, preparatory to serving the morning meal, and did not notice the fire until it had gained considerable headway. The house was a story and a half structure and none of the household goods upstairs was saved. After it was seen that the fire could not be extinguished, the volunteer department began carrying household goods out of the house.

The loss comes as a sad blow to Mrs. Emmons as she had invested most of her savings in the property, where she had intended to spend the remainder of her days. She is the mother of Samuel and Lawson Strode and she will live with her two sons for the present. She will likely rebuild in the spring.

AWARD TWO CONTRACTS

But Commissioners Have Not Named County Attorney Yet.

Up until a late hour this afternoon the county commissioners, in session, had not yet named the new county attorney to succeed John A. Titsworth, whose term expires January first. It is said that they intend to make the appointment this evening or tomorrow.

They awarded the contract for certain court house and jail supplies to the Mauzy Company for $212.38, while the contract for the coal for the coming year was given to William Dagler for $1,095. They still had the contract for lighting the court house and jail to let at a late hour this afternoon.

TO KEEP COUNTY OPTION.

In an effort to aid in preventing the repeal of the county local option law, the ministers of Richmond yesterday decided to effect a county organization. Petitions to the legislature will be presented to every voter in the county. The same effort is being made in New Castle.

Arlington.

Preaching at both churches on Sunday by the pastors, Revs. E. S. Connor and Jones.

John S. Matthews and wife were in Indianapolis Saturday to attend the funeral of Miss Howe, an old friend. Miss Howe was an aunt of President Howe of Butler University.

Charles Ewnas has commenced to build a new residence on his lot in Price's addition to the town of Arlington. There ought to be at least one hundred new homes erected this spring.

Christmas will soon be here. The good people of Arlington are preparing for a good time and to have a fine entertainment at the Christian church.

The cry of high prices still goes on. If the retail merchants throughout the country would withdraw their patronage from all wholesale houses who send out traveling men and order their goods by telephone, goods could be sold at least 20 per cent cheaper. Why has the consuming public the right to keep up 1000 traveling men from Indianapolis alone.

Alfred Swain, one of the old reliable citizens of Posey township, died on Saturday afternoon. The funeral was held Monday. Interment in Arlington cemetery. Mr. Swain will be missed all over the county as he has held many offices of trust in Rush county.

The demand for coal never was so great as it has been this fall and winter, and still the demand continues.

The hunters have made many good catches this winter and have supplied the town with rabbits.

Miss Alice and Mary Stanley are spending this winter with friends in Anderson and College Corner.

Rev. Jones is holding a successful protracted meeting at Pleasant Ridge, south of Arlington.

The new school building is proving a bonanza to the pupils of Posey township and helps to make the school the success it is this winter. The trustee, N. R. Farlow, although a Democrat, is making a success as a trustee. He has stood the test of the field examiners and came out without blemish.

The Arlington stores are decorated for Xmas.

Dr. A. G. Shauck is doing a land office business and scarcely gets time to eat or sleep. He is a man of rare ability and has built up a practice that few doctors enjoy.

The Sunday schools of Arlington are the most interesting and instructive schools in the country and are making Bible students out of the scholars and it is dangerous for a preacher not to be posted on his sermons. Ranger.

The growth of the United States, as shown by the census bulletin just issued has been remarkable and is amazing if we consider the comparative youth of the United States as contrasted with the countries of Europe. The colonial population 200 years ago was about 400,000 and at the beginning of the United States was less than 3,000,000. During the subsequent time there has been a steady natural increase but large account must be taken of the tremendous influx by immigration from all parts of the earth.

Immigration has been responsible for some of the best blood in the country and if we look far enough back it owes everything to immigration since the native born American is after all the red man. At certain stages of our national history the tide of immigration has brought to our shores a wealth of material for citizenship. The political revolutions in Europe increased our population in numbers and immensely enriched our population in point of quality.

There has been immigration that brought little good to this country. The tendency now is to make inspection so rigid that it will shut out defectives and paupers. It is well that there should be restriction. The United States can take care of good, sober, thrifty home builders and is willing to take that class of immigration without barring honest poverty. But we are growing so rapidly now that we can afford to be rather careful whom we receive.

With just eleven days remaining until Christmas the early shopper is almost finished and now is "resting on his oars."

To make a short cake, it is simply necessary to shop up a long one.

Anybody here tried to be a Good Fellow yet?

Christmas comes but once a year, but how about your pay envelope?

As we hobble to press it might be well to drop in a philosophical phrase that the world is made up of all sorts of folks, including those who think they can shop late and get away with it.

There is no use to wait until after Christmas when prices drop. It will be a year then.

The food commission of Pennsylvania is busy with a crusade to stop the sale of bad chestnuts. Why not the same action on the part of the literary commission of this United States?

Our idea of nothing to eat is what is known as a "vegetable substitute" for turkey.

What's the need of the old-fashioned potato sack races while hobble skirts are in vogue?

Chicago man pays an enormous sum for a horse, $11,000, believe it. He probably received a 1911 model.

The Human Heart

The heart is a wonderful double pump, through the action of which the blood stream is kept sweeping round and round through the body at the rate of seven miles an hour. "Remember this, that our bodies will not stand the strain of over-work without good pure blood any more than the engine can run smoothly without oil." After many years of study in the active practice of medicine, Dr. R. V. Pierce found that when the stomach was out of order, the blood impure and there were symptoms of general breakdown, a tonic made of the glyceric extract of certain roots was the best corrective. This he called

Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery

Being made without alcohol, this "Medical Discovery" helps the stomach to assimilate the food, thereby curing dyspepsia. It is especially adapted to diseases attended with excessive tissue waste, notably in convalescence from various fevers, for thin-blooded people and those who are always "catching cold."

Cayley Wheeled Sharply Up Into the Wind.

rather than in untanned hide. He seemed slighter, sprightlier, and in every way to convey the impression of having come more recently from the civilized, habitable portion of the world than his companions. He carried a rifle slung by a strap over his shoulder, evidently foreseeing no immediate use for it, and a flask.

Cayley was too far aloft for their conversation to be audible to him, but he could hear that they were talking. The leather-clad man appeared to be doing the most of it, and, from the inflection of his voice, he seemed to be speaking in English.

Presently he noticed that the leather-clad man had forged a little ahead of his companions, or, rather—like a flash, this idea occurred to Cayley—that the others were purposely lagging a little behind.

And then, before that sinister idea could formulate itself into a definite suspicion, his eyes widened with amazement, and the cry he would have uttered died in his throat; for this man, who had so innocently allowed the others to fall behind him, suddenly staggered, clutched at something—it looked like a thin ivory dart—that had transfixed his throat, tugged it out in a sudden flood of crimson, reeled a little and then went backwards over the glassy edge of a fissure in the ice, which lay just to the left of the path where he had been walking.

From the instant when Cayley had noticed the others dropping behind, to the last glimpse he had of the body of the murdered man could hardly have been five seconds.

The instant the murdered man disappeared, another, who had not previously been with the party, it seemed, appeared from behind a hummock of ice. There could be no doubt either that he was the assassin, or that he was the commander of the little group of skin-clad figures that remained. The ambush appeared to have been perfectly deliberate. There had been no outcry, not even a gesture of surprise or of remonstrance.

Cayley looked at the assassin curiously. He was dressed exactly like the others, but seemed very much bigger; seemed to walk with less of a slouch, and had, even to Cayley's limited view of him, an air of authority. Cayley was surprised at his not being armed with a bow, for he knew of no other way in which a dart could have been propelled with power enough, even at close range, to have transfixed a man's throat. The assassin's only weapon, except for a quiverful of extra darts, seemed to be a short blunt stick, rudely whittled, perhaps ten inches long.

Obedient, apparently, to the order of the new arrival, the party changed its direction, leaving what was evidently a well-known path to them, for a seemingly more direct but rougher route. And they moved now with an appearance of haste. Presently they scrambled over a precipitous ledge of ice and, in a moment, were lost to Cayley's view.

Ends Winter's Troubles.

Take Care!

When the kidneys are affected, life is in danger. Read what Foley Kidney Pills have done for your neighbor. W. W. Rigdon, Greenfield, Ind., says: "My kidneys and back have caused me a great deal of suffering in the past four years. Nothing seemed to do me any good until I took Foley Kidney Pills which were recommended to me. I had pains over my hips and in my back right over the kidneys. The action was very irregular and caused much irritation. The trouble affected my whole system, making me nervous, with dull headaches on arising and spells of vertigo. The faithful use of Foley Kidney Pills dispelled all my misery and all symptoms of kidney trouble disappeared."

The world was suddenly empty again, as if no living foot had ever trodden it; and Cayley, hovering there, a little above the level of the ice, rubbed his eyes and wondered whether the singular, silent tragedy he had just witnessed were real, or a trick the mysterious arctic light had played upon his tired eyes. But there remained upon that vacant scene two material reminders of the tragedy to which it had afforded a setting. One was smudge of crimson on the snow; the other, a little distance off, just this side of the icy ridge over which the last of the party had gone scrambling a moment before, was the strange looking blunt stick which he had seen in the assassin's hand.

Cayley flew a little lower, his wings almost skimming the ice. Finally, reaching the spot where the thing had fallen, he alighted and picked it up. Whether its possessor had valued it, or not, whether or not he might be expected to return for it, Cayley did not know, and did not much care.

He stood for some time turning the thing over in his hands, puzzling over it, trying to make out how it could have been used as the instrument of propulsion to that deadly ivory dart. There was a groove on one side of it, with a small ivory plug at the end. The other end was curiously shaped, misshapen, rather, for, though it was obviously the end one held, Cayley could not make it fit his hand, whatever position he held it in.

Giving up the problem at last, he tucked the stick into his belt, slipped his arm through the strap in the frame-work of his aeroplane and prepared for flight. He had a little difficulty getting up, owing to the absence of a breeze at this point. Finally he was obliged to climb, with a good deal of labor, the icy ridge up which he had watched the little party of murderers scrambling.

At the crest he cast a glance around, looking for them, but saw no signs of them. Then, getting a favorable slant of the wind, he mounted again into the element he now called his own.

Five years before Philip Cayley would have passed for a good example of that type of clean-limbed, clean-minded, likable young man which the best of our civilization seems to be flowering into. Physically, it would have been hard to suggest an improvement in him, he approached so near the ideal standards. He was fine grained, supple, slender, small-jointed, thoroughbred from head to heel.

Intellectually, he had been good enough to go through the academy at West Point with credit, and to graduate high enough in his class to be assigned to service in the cavalry. His standards of conduct, his ideas of honor and morality had been about the same as those of the best third of his classmates. If his fellow officers in the Philippines, during the year or two he spent in the service, had been asked to pick a flaw in him, which they would have said that he seemed to them a bit too thin-skinned and rather fastidious; that was what his chum and only intimate friend, Perry Hunter, said about him at any rate.

But he could afford to be fastidious, for he had about all a man could want, one would think. For three generations they had taken wealth for granted in the Cayley family, and with it had come breeding, security of social position, simplicity and ease in making friends, both among men and women. In short, there could be no doubt at all that up to his twentieth year Fate had been ironically kind to Philip Cayley. She had given him no hint, no preparation for the stunning blow that was to fall upon him, suddenly, out of so clear a sky.

When it did fall, it cut his life clean across; so that when he thought back to that time now, it seemed to him that the Lieutenant Cayley of the United States army had died over there in the Philippines, and that he, the man who was now soaring in those great circles through the arctic sky, was a chance inheritor of his name and of his memory.

He had set out one day at the head of a small scouting party, the best-liked man in the regiment, secure in the respect, in the almost fatherly regard, of his colonel, proudly conscious of the almost idolatrous admiration of his men and the younger officers. He had gone out believing that no one ever had a truer friend than he possessed in Perry Hunter, his classmate at West Point, his fellow officer in the regiment, the confidant of all his hopes and ideals.

He had come back, after a fortnight's absence, to find his name smeared with disgrace, himself judged and condemned, unheard, in the opinion of the mess. And that was not the worst of it. The same blow which had deprived him of the regard of the only people in the world who mattered to him, destroyed, also, root and branch, his affection for the one man of whom he had made an intimate. The only feeling that it would be possible for him to entertain for Perry Hunter again must be a half-pitying, half-incredulous contempt. And if that was his feeling for the man he had trusted most and loved the most deeply, what must be it for the rest of humankind? What did it matter what they thought of him or what they did to him? All he wanted of human society was to escape from it.

He fell to wondering, as he hung, suspended, over that rosy expanse of fleecy fog, whether, were the thing to do over again, he would act as he had acted five years ago; whether he would content himself with a single disdainful denial of the monstrous thing they charged him with; whether he would resign again, under fire, and go away, leaving his tarnished name for the daws to peck at.

Heretofore he had always answered that question with a fierce affirmative. Today it left him wondering. Had he stayed, had he paid the price that would have been necessary to clear himself, he would never have found his wings, so much was clear. He would never have spent those four years in the wilderness, working, experimenting, taking his life in his hands, day after day, while he mastered the art that no man had ever mastered before.

He had set himself this task because it was the only one he knew that did not involve contact with his fellow-beings. He must have something that he could work at alone. Work and solitude were two things that he had felt an overmastering craving for. And the possibility he had faced with a light heart every morning—the possibility of a sudden and violent death before night, had been no more to him than an agreeable spice to the day's work.

It was not until he had actually learned to fly, had literally shaken the dust of the earth from his feet and taken to the sky as his abode, that his wound had healed. The three months that he had spent in this upper arctic air, a-wing for 16 hours out of 24, had calmed him, put his nerves in tune again; given him for men and their affairs a quiet indifference, in place of the smarting contempt he had been hugging to his breast before. Three months ago, at sight of those little human dots crossing the glacier, he would have wheeled aloft and gone sailing away. Even a month ago he would hardly have hung, soaring there, above the fog, waiting for it to lift again the veil of mystery which it had drawn across the tragic scene he had just witnessed.

The month was August, and the long arctic day had already begun to know its diurnal twilight. A fortnight ago the sun had dipped, for the first time, below the horizon. By now there were four or five hours, out of every 25, that would pass for night.

The sun set while he hung there in the air, and as it did so, with a new slant of the breeze the fog rolled itself up into a great violet-colored cloud, leaving the earth, the ice, the sea unveiled below him. And there, in the open water of the little bay, he saw a ship, and on the shore a cluster of rude huts.

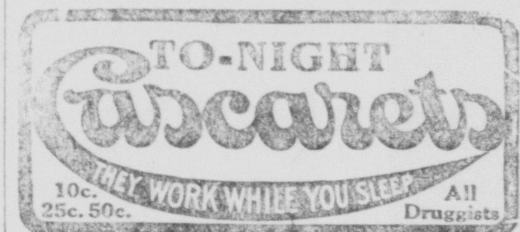

It struck him, even from the height at which he soared, that the ship, tied to an ice-floe in the shelter of the great headland, did not look like a whaler, nor like the sort of craft which an arctic explorer would have selected for his purposes. It had more the trim smartness of a yacht.

They were probably all asleep down there, he reflected. It was nearly midnight and he saw no signs of life anywhere. He would drop down for a nearer look.

He descended, with a sudden hawk-like pounce, which was one of his more recent achievements in the navigation of the air, checked himself again at about the level of the mast-head, with a flashing, forward swoop, like a man diving in shallow water; then, with a sudden effort, brought himself up standing, his planes nearly vertical, and, with a backward spring, alighted, clear of his wings, on the ice-floe just opposite the ship.

As he did so, he heard a little surprised cry, half of fear, half of astonishment. It was a girl's voice.

HILPRECHT'S CHARGE HAS CREATED A STIR

University of Pennsylvania Rent Into Factions.

Philadelphia, Dec. 13.—Dr. Herman V. Hilprecht, the famous scientist, who resigned as head of the department of assyriology at the University of Pennsylvania, in his letter of resignation openly charges that while he was away on his vacation last summer his office was broken into, his desk ransacked and many valuable papers stolen.

The hardest blow of all, he declares, was when he discovered that the ancient tablets he dug from the mounds at Babylon and deposited in the university museum had been mutilated, defaced or stolen. The tablets bore the inscription upon which he had based his most famous theories.

Dr. Hilprecht's charges have caused a stir among the university trustees. They have taken sides and already Samuel F. Houston, one of the most influential members of that body, has resigned in sympathy with Dr. Hilprecht.

CENTRAL POINT OF POPULATION

Will Be Located In Brown County, Indiana.

PROF. MILLER'S FIGURES ON IT

Former Lieutenant Governor of Indiana Has Figured Out That Population Center Post Will Be Located About Seven Miles West and One and a Half Miles North of Nashville, Which Is the Capital of Brown.

Columbus, Ind., Dec. 13.—The new population center for the United States has moved thirty miles west and two miles north during the past ten years, if statistics carefully computed by former Lieutenant Governor Hugh T. Miller are to be accepted. It is now situated, he says, in Washington township, Brown county, near the Monroe county line, in longitude 86 degrees, 21 minutes, 4 seconds, and latitude 39 degrees, 11 minutes, 1 second, or in Township 9 north, Range 1 east.

This makes the new center about thirty miles west and two miles north of the center of population as fixed in 1900, which was on the farm of Henry Marr, about five or six miles southeast of this city.

Mr. Miller does not vouch for the absolute accuracy of the location of the center, but thinks he has made a reasonably close guess. He has figured the center in the same manner that it is located by the government officials, although he has been handicapped by the absence of maps that give accurate surveys, and has been forced to use a county atlas for his comparisons in this locality.

Mr. Miller, in arriving at his conclusions, estimates the center of all population of each state. After estimating these centers, he figures the center of population for all of them. The government figures the center of population in the same way, but it will have accurate figures to show the center of population of each state.

TOO MUCH THEATER

Leads to Inquiry Into Mental Condition of South Bend Millionaire.

South Bend, Ind., Dec. 13.—After he had written a letter to Miss Winifred Greenwood, an actress, declaring that he was going to marry her provided she would leave the "stage powder" off her face, John C. Wagner, one of the wealthiest men in South Bend, was arrested and confined to jail pending an examination of his mental condition. When taken into custody he was trying to sell a merchant stock in a $50,000,000 moving picture theater. Mr. Wagner, although eccentric, has never given any trouble. He has been going to the theater twice a day for more than a year, wearing a dress suit most of the time, and paying fabulous prices for choice seats. He is said to have given $100 for a box at the Sarah Bernhardt performance recently, and he has frequently paid $10 for single seats at the theater where Miss Greenwood is playing.

TWO BOYS AND A GUN

"Aim at This Spot," Said One, Pointing to Scar on Forehead.

Auburn, Ind., Dec. 13.—Bidding his brother Glenn to "aim at this spot," Harry Weldin trifled with death once too often and received a 22-caliber rifle bullet in his forehead.

Glenn is fourteen and Harry was eight years old. Glenn bought a gun against the wishes of his mother, Mrs. Oliver Weldin, and with his brother went hunting. She was away from home. The boys came home, after which Glenn picked up his rifle and, forgetting it was loaded, said: "Look out, I am going to shoot something." The gun snapped, but the cartridge did not explode.

Harry heard the click and said: "Aim at this spot," pointing to a scar on his forehead. The brother did and Harry fell dead.

He Impersonated an Officer.

Chattanooga, Tenn., Dec. 13.—Fred Warden, aged forty, of New York, a self-confessed criminal, hunted by detectives of the department of justice for several months, was arrested in this city and was sentenced in the United States court to eighteen months in the federal prison in Atlanta. He was charged with impersonating an officer of the United States government in Indiana, Kentucky, Tennessee, Alabama and Mississippi for nearly two years.

Didn't Hear Explosion.

Milton, Ind., Dec. 13.—The safe in the grocery store of F. M. Jones & Co. was blown open and $10 in cash stolen. Special guards appointed to watch the safe of the Farmers' State bank, which was wrecked by burglars early Saturday morning, were on duty, but did not hear the explosion which wrecked the Jones grocery safe, which was nearby.

The Wife Is Locked Up.

Philadelphia, Dec. 13.—Herbert Mason Clapp, a wealthy clubman of this city, is in a hospital with a bullet in his head and probably will die, and his young wife is locked up, charged with having shot him.

BRONCHITIS

To Whom it May Concern.

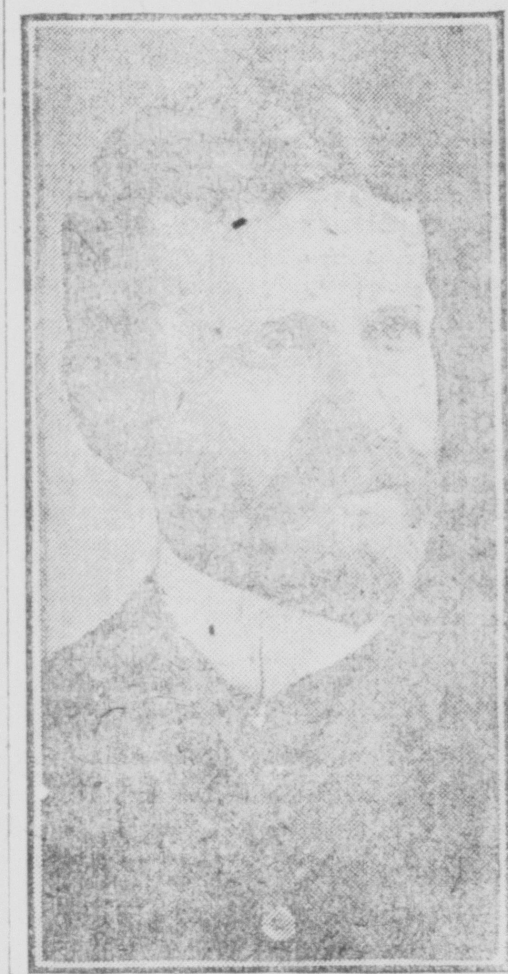

Bluevale, Ont., May 4, 1910. "I was sick for two years with chronic bronchitis and a consequent run-down condition. I received no benefit from doctors or from a trip which I took for my health and I had to give up work. Vinol was recommended and from the second bottle I commenced to improve—I gained in weight and strength, my bronchial trouble disappeared, and I am at work again. I want to recommend Vinol to anyone who is in need of such a medicine." Thomas Higgins. (We guarantee this testimonial to be genuine.)

It is the combined action of the curative elements of the cods' livers aided by the blood making and strength creating properties of tonic iron contained in Vinol which makes it so successful in curing bronchitis.

Vinol is a constitutional remedy for chronic coughs, colds, bronchitis and pulmonary troubles, not a palliative like cough syrups.

Vinol contains no oil or drugs and is far more efficacious than cough mixtures, because it cures the cause. Try it. If you don't think it helps you, we will return your money. F. B. Johnson & Co. Druggists, Rushville, Ind.

Red Cross Managers Use Portion of Proceeds to Publish Exhaustive Pamphlet on Tuberculosis.

The Red Cross has begun a campaign of education in Indiana on how the people may successfully fight tuberculosis by preventing it from taking hold of them and how to cure the victims who are attacked by the plague. A pamphlet on the subject has been written by Dr. Henry Moore of Indianapolis, who was at the head of the Commission which built the Indiana Hospital for Tuberculosis at Rockville, and who has been appointed one of the board of trustees. The American Red Cross pronounces it the best tract that has been written on the subject. There has been such a demand for it that a second edition has been issued. Ten thousand copies were given away at the Indiana State Fair and a special edition to be distributed by the scores of women's clubs in the Indiana Federation of Cubs is now ready. The pamphlet traces the history of the White Plague and tells of its ravages through the centuries. The chapters on the treatment of patients is especially comprehensive.

The cost of publishing the pamphlet has been met by some of the proceeds of the Red Cross Christmas

MANILLA PASTOR GOES TO NEW FIELD

The Rev. E. E. Kuhn, Brother of the Preacher-Politician, Resigns as Head of Christian Church.

PLANS TO GO TO FAIRVIEW

The Rev. E. E. Kuhn, brother of Thomas H. Kuhn, who led the Democratic hosts of the Sixth congress-sional campaign in two campaigns, has resigned as pastor of the Manilla Christian church. The Rev. Kuhn handed in his resignation to the official board several days ago and it became effective last Sunday. He has been acting as pastor of the church for the past two years and under his direction and wise leadership the congregation has enjoyed a remarkable growth. Two highly successful revival meetings have been held during his pastorate at which time many accessions to the church were secured.

The Rev. Mr. Kuhn has accepted a position as pastor of the Christian church at Fairview and the best wishes of the members of the church follow him to his new field of endeavor.

Several applicants for the vacancy caused by his resignation have been made, but no immediate action will be taken by the congregation toward getting a pastor.
